

Jean-François Buggenhout is head of the “Flagships” unit at the European Commission, Directorate General for Communications Networks, Content and Technology. He has been working on the design and implementation of EU Research and Innovation programmes since 2004, building on his experience acquired at various research labs of the private sector (Philips, Alcatel, EVS). Jean-François holds a MSc degree in Engineering (Ecole Polytechnique, ULB Brussels, BE) and a specialisation in Computer Networks and Systems (Supélec, Rennes, FR).